Henry Clowe's Weekly Letter on the Money Situation.

STRAIN PERCEPTIBLY RELIEVED

On Wall Street by the Issuance o Clearing House Certificates-The Action of India in Suspending Free Coinage Calls for Immediate Action by Congress.

Special Carrespondence of the Intelligences

In Wall street, attairs continue to drift on in about the same state as for the past month. The urgent demands of merchants for discount still continue. Precisely where lies the secret spring, the touching of which would start the financial machinery into natural action, no one has yet been fortunate enough to discover. Clearing house certificates, saued up to the amount of some $15,-500,000, and the prepayment of July interest by the ireasury and certain large corporations has, however, perceptibly relieved the strain. The net remittances of money to the interior and to the Pacific coast have fallen to a nominal amount and the settlements with the subtressury have been in favor of the banks; also the hope has strengthened from day to day that when Congress as-sembles in extra session it will order the suspension of purchases of silver; still, in spite of these alleviating circumstill, in spite of these alleviating circumstances, the pressure upon the credit of the mercantile community lacks a trustworthy safety-valve. A strain so protracted and so stubborn has rarely been experienced. The obstacle does not lie in any general distrust of the quality of the collateral offered for loans or of the paper offered for discount. It is generally conceded that commercial affairs are upon a sound basis, and the number of cases of insolvency that the pressure has brought to light is surprisingly small. The nearest approach to any actual relied appeared on Thursday, when some of the stronger banks agreed among themselves to take out a large amount of clearing house certificates, and did actually take out $5,000,000, in order to make an assuring impression; and the effect of this wise intervention was immediate and marked.

order to make an assuring impression; and the effect of this wise intervention was immediate and marked.

Apart from the necessities of the commercial community, the suspension of free coinage by the government of India calls for immediate action by Congress. It has precipitated a further large decline in the price of silver. Unless therefore the whole country has been mistaken in the importance it attaches to this situation, Congress should immediately consider this complicated question in all its bearings and to place the country beyond reach of further suffering from it.

It would be an error to suppose that any unsound or otherwise dangerous elements exist outside of this single question of the dangers connected with six a generally sound condition of trade and industry concurrently with a dangerous paralysis of credit arising from distrust as to the future of the money of payments.

Bradstreet's Report.

Among larger eastern cities no improvement in financial or mercantile circles is reported, except at Buffalo, whore uneasiness, owing to a bank failure a week ago, has been quieted by the action of the clearing house there, and confidence appears restored. Collections are also declared seasonably prompt, and the volume of trade is reported to exceed that for the like portion of last year. Trade at Pittsburgh continues unsatisfactory, owing to tight money. It is difficult to procure extensions of loans, and few new loans are making. Iron and steel remain exceedingly dull. At Baltimore demand for money continues in excess of the quantity the banks are willing to lend. Collections are slow, but few time loans are made. Demand tor staples remains checked, buyers holding off. Philadelphia reports continued dullness and depression. The issuance of clearing house certificates eased the situation somewhat, but complaints are heard of inability to get accommodation. Washington, D. C., June 30.—Superintendent Stump, of the immigration intendent Stump, of the immigration treasury department, to-day declined to give a permit in advance for the landing of 2,300 Jews from abroad. The request was preferred by S. J. Klein, who represents a syndicate engaged in the colonization of 200,000 acres of land. This land was purchased some time ago, divided up into small farms, and then Mr. Klein undertook to settle it. For this purpose he went abspad, and in Ressarabia at Roumania succeeded in inducing 2,500 Jews to agree to come to the United States and take up Utah land.

THE IRON AND STEEL SCALE.

mali Matters Casso a Fullure to Agree. It Will be Armappel, Hawaran—Adjourned for a Wook.

Perresupos, Pa., July 2.—The union iron and steel mills of the country will be idle for at least a week, though it was by a very narrow margin that the conference with the Amalgamated delegates yesterday failed of an agreement.

yesterday failed of an agreement. An adjournment was taken until next Saturday afternoon at 20 clock. It is probable that one or two days conferring will then suffice to adjust matters, as the matters about which a difference yet exists are comparatively trifling.

It was definitely made known yesterday that the base of the new scale is to be $5 00 a ton for puddling. The fact was net stated officially, but through communication with those in the conference it became common property among the manufacturers. Very considerable reductions in finishing departments were also assented to by the worker's representatives and it is now understood that all that prevents at least part of the mills from scale is the refukal of the Amalgamated men to modify certain foot notes or extras.

Decided to take A week's recess.

DECIDED TO TAKE A WEEK'S RECESS.

There was a confident expectation in ron and steel circles yesterday that the scale would be agreed to before the scale would be agreed to before night. The conference assembled as usual in the Ferguson building and remained in zession until about 6:80 o'clock. On its adjournment it was announced it had been decided to take a week's recess. The Amaigamated men gave a Dispatch reporter to understand that this was done at the request of the manufacturers, though they were not averse to it, as they wanted to go home to spend the Fourth of July. Many of those who live at a distance from Pittsburgh left last night and the rest left this morning.

The reductions which the Amalgamated men have consented to make in the scale are understood to comprehend quite a wariety of subjects, so that the hitch over which a week's adjournment has been taken, cannot probably be serious. If, however, no agreement should be reached on the things that are causing the trouble the settlement on others will not hold good. SOME MANUFACTURERS ALBRADY SATISFIED.

It is also stated that the reductions so far consented to by the Amaigamated Association suit some mills better than others so that an agreement may be affected with some firms and not with others. The statement published yesterday morning that Jones & Laughlins and the J. Painter's Sons Company had signed the scale is, however, denied officially by both sides.

The reductions in finishing, so far as can be ascertained, are largest on structural rolling and heating and on bar and hoop mills. Certain kinds of guide mill rolling, it is said, have been reduced little or nothing. This naturally does not suit the mills that work exclusively on the things not roduced. It is probable that the Amalgamated Association has made, or will make, some arrangement with these mills with which it is nearest in accord to run, if they wish, pending a settlement. This would naturally be to run at the old scale till the new one is settled. The bar mill at Oliver's lower mills was running yesterday. It is also stated that the reductions so running yesterday.

ORDERED TO KEEP AT WORK.

The workmen said that they understood the scale had not been signed at that time, but that it would be soon, as orders were issued from the Amalgamated association headquarters early in the morning that the men in the bar mill should continue at work. This was believed by them to be a sure indication that everything had been agreed upon. It is known, however that D. R. Oliver was willing to run the mills at the old scale for a time, and it is probable the association officials consented to let him.

It is likely that a similar arrangement will also be made with Jones & Laughlins, though their mills were idle in all departments yesterday. Another meeting between representatives of the steel workers and members of the firm was held to discuss the special scale, but no agreement was reached. The executive board will render a decision in the matter next Wednesday, and it is held probable that considerable reductious will be conceded.

It is not likely that any mills will run to a great extent this week even if The workmen said that they under-

THE NAVAL DISASTER.

The Truth About II at Last—A Blundering Order Coused It. LONDON, July 2.—At last we have the truth about the great naval disaster, nine days age, in a far corner of the Mediterranean. It was a very human blouder which sent the menster engine of war, with nearly 400 of her crow, to the bottom of the sea. The man who, by common consent, ranked as the ablest commander of the finest navy the world ever saw, gave the order which involved the deadliest peril if it did not make disaster insyltable.

This, however, does not throw the responsibility entirely upon the dead admiral. Assuming that Sir George made the blunder that is imputed to him, the rules of the British admiraty will still hold commanders of their respective vessels directly responsible for a collision. The point is this: A captain's first duty in peacaful evolutions is to avoid letting his vessel collide or run ashore, even if necessary to disregard a superior's orders in order to escape catastrophe. This rule was distinctly emphasized at a recent court martial on the stranding of the battleship Howe.

It was this rule which Admiral Markham obeyed when he falled to respond at first to Tryon's order to turn the Camperdown's prow toward the Victoria. Had Markham, or rather the captain of the Camperdown, persisted, in disregard of the commanderinchief's order, under protection of this rule, the disaster would have been averted.

Tryon, who was a stern disciplinarian, holsted the peremptory signal: "Why are my orders not obeyed?" The position of the Camperdown's commander was like that of the commander of the Light Brigade at Balaclava, who knew "some one had blundered."

It must be said in defense of both captains that Admiral Tyron not only was never known to make a mistake, but he possessed, to a degree which probably no living naval commander enjoys, the absolute confidence and loyalty of every man under him. Lord Charles Beresford, illustrating this point in conversation with the correspondent the other day, said:

"My confidence in the judgment and ability in Admiral Tyron was so great that, had I been in a general action and on the point of vanquishing the ship with which I engaged, and Sir George had signalled me to withdraw, I should have obeyed without even a doubt of the wisdom of his order arising in my mind, so sure would I be that his superior judgment saw for me a more effective part to play."

It was from such a man that th

from the sick list.

The facts printed about the causes of the calamity have made a most painful impression in Eagland. There is no disposition to denounce the gallant admiral who would make no effort to save his own life. The correspondent telegraphed Lord Beresford whose comments on the meager news of the accident early in the week attracted widespread attention, asking if he would discuss the matter in the light of the latest developments. The following reply was received:

latest developments. The following reply was received:
"No, thank you. I deprecate all conjectures as unfair to the dead and living alike. The service inquiry will surely unravel everything. Accidents are inseparable from the life of a seaman. Men are but mortal; machinery is treacherous. Tryon was the most brilliant seaman the state possessed,"

LINDLEY, STEUBEN Co., N. Y., April 11, 1800. FOSTER, MILEURN & Co., Buffalo, N. Y.

FOSTER, MILBURN & Co., Buffalo, N. Y.

GENTLEMEN:—When about ten or twelve years old I was troubled with cracks across the palm of my left hand, and when they healed the trouble brake out on my head, and every winter it would come out as a sort of tetter and make scales all over my head. I have not been free from it a single winter since, but it was worse last winter after I had the grippe, for then it came out in spots all over my body. I had a doctor examine me, and he told me that there was no cure for me. I got worse and writer since, but it was worse last winter after I had crack and pop open, showing a watery matter. My skin was all like a dry wrapper. It felt as though it had dried on me. The scales were so bad that they would collect in the bed and have to be shaken out. It was about this time that I commenced using 8. 8. 8. I was so bad that I was ashamed to take my hat off before a neighbor. I had used five bottles of another medicine without noticing any effect; but when I commenced to take 8. 8. 8. the sores came out thicker than before, and they burned like fire; they were immense blotches of fire that would burn so I could not sleep. The way they burned and itched can not be told, and I hope no one else may ever know from experience. The only relief I was really better, although I knew that it was better to get such rottenness out of my blood than to have it stay there. I did say once that I wished I had never commenced taking 8. 8. 8., but my wife encouraged me, and to-day I thank her for the advice, for I am in good health now, and I don't believe I ever would have been with my blood in such a condition as it was.

My scalp now is clean and clear of all scales and tetter, and on my body there are only small spots to show where the sores were, and these spots are free from scales. I do not doubt but that the cure will be perfect.

I am now on the sixth bottle and will take more until every spot is gone. I firmly believe that Burdock Blood Bitters will cure the worst disorders of the blood,
